TED OWENS:

EARTH'S LINK WITH SPACE CRAFT?

He might well be the world's most controversial—and most unorthodox psychic. He is Ted Owens of Virginia, and he claims to have established a strong communication link with UFO intelligences.

BY BILL R. QUINALTY

Other-Dimensional forces are saturating this area," remarked the husky, middle-aged man sitting next to me in the car. His voice had a ring of authority and, during the two days ahead, I would become convinced myself of the existence of that mysterious "Other-Dimensional" (OD) power to which he referred.

The man?—Ted Owens. But he is not just an ordinary man—at least not by ordinary standards. He is a very controversial (and somewhat unorthodox) psychic! With an impressive background of ESP research and many related mental/psychic skills, plus experience gained from diverse professions, it was probably only natural that Ted would develop extraordinary psychic abilities. In ages past, he might have been called a prophet, magician or wizard. Today he is most widely known as "PK man." (PK stands for psychokinetic) From the psychic viewpoint, Ted Owens may have advanced far ahead of his time, because he not only predicts coming events but—with help from the UFOs—actually commands the forces of nature to bring them about on occasions! A virtual library of documented evidence and testimonials of 'OD' miracles now back him up.

Prior to our actual meeting, I had learned of the 'PK' man due to my interest in metaphysics and psychic matters. But merely reading was not enough. Determined to see for myself what type of person he really was—in addition to expanding new mental skills—I set out for Cape Charles, Virginia, in July of 1973.

I had expected the psychic to be a super-cool, slightly aloof personality. Reality proved otherwise—psychics are human too! In fact, had I not known exactly where we were meeting, I could have mistaken this heavily-framed, casually-dressed gentleman in brown shirt and black trousers for an average "man on the street." Upon approaching closer, however, I instinctively sensed an aura of power radiating from him. I then realized I was in the presence of a dynamic person.

Ted Owens has accomplished nearly 500 proven "miracles"—true! That is simple fact, and the list grows longer daily. Though he does not "beat around the bush" about his accomplishments, one should be careful not to confuse this directness (typical of Ted) with arrogance.

A family man, who is quite fond of his loved ones, Ted says, "... My children and my wife ... are my life. Without them, there would be no meaning."

His activities and lifestyle are unpretentious. One feels welcome in the friendly, warm atmosphere of the Owens' home—an old-style, but neat, two-story building, nestled in pleasantly simple surroundings.

With the fantastic psychokinetic strength he has developed throughout years of intense training, this master psychic claims to have literally unleashed powerful storms and caused hurricanes to change their course, when desirable; yet he has a subtle gentleness about him that is not always apparent but that is recognized and trusted by children. Both "Beau" (Bograde Owens, age 10) and "Teddy" (age 2½) regard their dad as a real pal. And, why not? He's a man who always finds time to lovingly hug or play around with his youngest son Teddy, no matter how busy his life may be.

Like any other human being, psychic or not, Ted has down-to-earth traits too. Among other things, he appreciates good food, ("Chef" Owens prepared a scrumptious breakfast on my second day there) and enjoys an occasional cold beer during hot weather. The Owens' are not petty, but simply likable people—as some folks might say, "neighborly." "Just make yourself at home," Ted admonished immediately after my arrival.

Ted's manner of speaking was notable. He talks with conviction and his brisk conversation reminded me of a radio or television commentator's style. After introducing ourselves, we shook hands and Ted motioned me to his car. As we stepped inside, I glanced back at the quaint combination drugstore-bus station I had just left, situated in the heart of downtown Cape Charles (a small, quiet community on Virginia's eastern shore peninsula). I had left Norfolk at 4:30 that morning on a northbound bus and arrived in Cape Charles at 6 a.m.—the early departure being necessary since busses stop in Cape Charles only twice a day. After exchanging a few more casual comments with Ted, I looked around once more. We drove slowly down the street and I observed a few people starting to mill about. A couple of "old timers" could be seen sitting outside a store, talking—possibly sharing past experiences still vibrant in their memories. Across the street, a woman was busily toting a bag of groceries to her car. A young couple strolled by, oblivious to all but their own emotional world. The whole business area, consisting entirely of a few small stores, one food market and a gas station further down the street, reminded me of similar country towns in my own native state (Arkansas).

At first we discussed conventional topics. Then Ted changed the conversation: "I'll take you for a short drive to show you around."

A few sailboats and small fishing craft could already be seen dotting the water. In the distance, the long Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel was partially visible, and a new morning sun was peaking through the clouds as if to assure us of a clear day ahead. As we approached the curved cape road outlining a beach strip, a rustic wood-framed hotel appeared on my right.

"It's all rather scenic," I remarked, glancing down toward the beach that was now coming into view.

Ted agreed, emphasizing that he also liked the area because it was far removed from larger cities with their pollution and noise. But, "Most of all, I've always wanted to buy my own place and settle down near the ocean some day," he added. Reflecting his innate love for the sea.

I then remembered that there was another great psychic who had settled down and carried on his life's work not too far from this very spot—Edgar Cayce, the famous "sleeping prophet" of Virginia Beach, who is said to have literally tapped the Universal Mind. A wisdom far beyond his own seemed to guide Cayce from childhood, as he gave fantastic health readings and life-changing philosophy to thousands. There are definite parallels between the two Virginia psychics. First, Edgar Cayce practiced the art of healing by utilizing a (then, unorthodox) system that combined psychological and physical methods, tailored to individual patients. He also believed in higher spiritual intelligences, who apparently channeled vital information through him while in a trance. In addition, many of Cayce's prophesies, like Ted's, were of the earth-shaking variety: earthquakes, shifting of large land masses, violent disruption and sinking of continents, and other dramatic changes in the physical (as well as moral) planet environment. (However, out of such turmoil an age of love and enlightenment is eventually to emerge.) With the exception of so-called "readings," Ted has done all the psychic marvels that Cayce has done, perhaps more. However, his system has expanded far beyond the confines that limit most modern psychics. He works with mysterious but powerful "Other-Dimensional" mechanisms, which, according to Ted, "are not within the framework of this world's physical laws." There are testimonials of healing in Ted's files that back this claim—some cases were beyond the help of conventional medical science, when he stepped in and turned the tide. Nevertheless, Ted does not oppose the medical profession. He urges the use of doctors and medicine in circumstances where it is practical, but reminds people that the "giant subconscious mind" can also be depended on to supplement medical or dental aid.

At one period during Ted's long years of work with psychic forces, he came in contact with advanced beings who are not of this world. Evidently, they recognized his potential and singled him out as the one-in-a-billion earth creatures worth establishing communication with. Called "SI's" (space intelligences) by Ted, these awesome entities have formed a link between Ted Owens and themselves. They are the underlying influence behind many of the psychic's fantastic "miracles." As to their ultimate purpose, Ted has only been able to conclude that they are working within some kind of universal framework. Part of their mission at present is to get this sick planet back into balance and to save nature from man's contamination. Through their spokesman, Ted, the SI's are also trying to get the attention of those in authority and impress upon them that they do exist and are trying to help us. It is also evident that the SI's stand by to defend the cause of justice, if mankind continues to disregard its moral responsibilities.

Interrupting my wandering thoughts, Ted announced, "I just completed an experiment a few weeks ago at a large radar installation near here . . . controlled the radar with my mind while experts watched."

"It was rather strange how the whole thing came about," he added, candidly. Apparently Ted had an acquaintance who worked at the complex. While talking with him on the telephone one day, Ted was casually asked if he might be interested in seeing the installation. He admitted that he would like to visit, but that he knew tight security must surround such a place, since it was government-operated. Nevertheless, Mr. Owens was assured that much of the red tape could be cleared within a few days for him—and it was.

After a brief tour of the station, Ted received a go-ahead from higher officials for a psychokinetic experiment that would demonstrate the awesome nature of what he terms "Other-Dimensional" powers. Ted stood near the center of the main complex for a while, observing its impressive electronic array. Then he gazed directly into a computer-linked radar console, as if in deep contemplation. Suddenly, mouths dropped and eyes widened as they fastened on the screen. The radar had suddenly "lit up like a Christmas tree!" From twenty to fifty UFOs appeared, streaks of light flashed, and, to top things off, a huge "shaft" of white, glowing light appeared across the screen. An amazed technician gasped with excitement—explaining later the reason for his reaction: The shaft was, he said, an indication that "a powerful force is coming from somewhere right in this room."

"Don't you think it might be coming from my mind?" Ted inquired. (This phenomena, incidentally, is well documented. A notarized statement was signed by a government official at the installation.)

Not fully realizing at the time just how much power he had unleashed in the area, Ted became somewhat concerned over the secondary effects of "OD" forces. "You see, Other-Dimensional energy takes weeks, sometimes months to wear off," he explained to me with a note of seriousness, pointing out that, although such was not purposely intended, it could cause adverse reactions in the atmosphere, affecting aircraft and possibly ships at sea, for miles around.

We then drove to a restaurant along the nearby highway and had a quiet breakfast while discussing general topics, in addition to mysteries of the human mind. Ted described the "SI system," which I had wanted him to teach me (a mind conditioning program developed by him over the years, under the direction, he claims, of the Space Intelligence themselves.)

Next, we stopped briefly at the motel where I was to spend the night and checked in. Ted went over the room thoroughly; turning on the television to check its operation, testing the firmness of the bed's mattress with his hand, and making sure things were in order. I later learned that there was good reason for this. First, I was told that a good, sound night's sleep would be essential, as a heavy build-up of "OD" energy would tax the body. Ted explained that "OD" recharges one's whole system during training, somewhat as a battery is recharged. Nevertheless, the body has to slowly adjust to such additional "voltage—by letting it settle, so to speak. (Once during our sessions, after Ted recommended a half-hour break, I was made even more aware of "OD" effects on one's system. I could almost sense a subtle, but vital, "electric" influence in the air. I took a short walk to a local cafe—and promptly dozed off while sipping coffee!) As for the television adjustment, apparently the SI's are able to project needed symbols and/or general communications into a television set, where they are absorbed and, in turn, used by one's deeper mental levels.

While en route to Ted Owens' home, I asked numerous questions and absorbed more information. I was told of a recent trip he had made to California with his oldest son, and of the sighting of a "golden globe of light" by Ted, his boy, and another witness who happened by while they were traveling in the Arizona desert. (This incident is also documented.) Evidently, the SI's were observing the psychic throughout his trip. In addition, he was later directed to stop at a spot in the road, where he discovered a smooth, round rock, strongly resembling an alien face, complete with eyes, nose, mouth and other features. Ted wonders if perhaps this is a "petrified head" of some small UFO humanoid who once walked the earth ages ago.

Before we entered Owens' house, Ted delighted in showing me a once-withered plant that had been transplanted and was showing marked signs of recuperation. First we went through the spacious back yard, where I observed his pets—a small squirrel monkey and a white rabbit. As we approached for a closer observation, Ted explained: "The mother rabbit actually adopted the baby monkey as her own." The little fellow, sensing a stranger, was now clinging closely to his "mother's" back. Ted talked to the animals and we watched their antics a while before entering the house.

A large number of Ted Owens' uncanny demonstrations revolve around a highly-advanced psychokinesis (mind over matter) system, which in turn is linked up via his brain with Other-Dimensional ("OD") forces. "OD" energy normally functions outside of our own third-dimensional plane, and is awesome in its scope.

The very possibility that such phenomena could exist fascinated me from the beginning. Later, on the basis of personal experience and observation, I was able to accept much of what Ted claimed myself. With a background in metaphysics, it was probably natural for me to recognize parallels between Ted's situation and certain biblical events. For example, in Sunday school most of us learned how prophets of old, such as Moses, Elijah and others commanded nature's forces to do their bidding: Elijah caused "fire" (lightning?) to descend from "heaven." He also caused both draught and rain. Moses was constantly surrounded by paranormal events—influences potent enough to push aside a path in the sea, manifest "pillars" of fire and smoke, cause intense plagues, etc. In Ted's case, we seem to be dealing with similar Other-Dimensional phenomena—only with a more modern terminology being used to describe it.

According to Ted, Other-Dimensional power expands—that is, like other things in nature, it grows with time—and is essentially used to radiate a constructive influence. The Space Intelligences are able to tap this energy directly, but they often relay it through Ted. (He uses "OD" in his healing work and to promote better weather conditions.) Extraordinary results have appeared in countless cases. Nevertheless, since Ted Owens works with the "SI's," who have a superior knowledge and better overall perspective of things, he admits he cannot always "call the shots."

Many plastic "SI" discs have been carefully and patiently charged with beneficial "OD" forces by Ted—then distributed to those in need of them. Healings, protection, good luck, better jobs and other benefits are reported by people who wear the discs.

Other-Dimensional forces appear to be linked up with the universal principle of cause and effect, and Ted has been quite outspoken in this area. He is concerned about mankind's continued abuse of nature and disregard for moral responsibility. Perhaps the "bad seeds" we have sown over the years (war, intolerance, greed, etc.) are now bringing their unpleasant harvest in full force. Most psychics feel that the long build-up of negative energies has only started to unleash unpleasant retribution. Logically, the Higher Intelligences would find it necessary to take appropriate steps towards normalizing conditions. Unfortunately, however, if the ancient prophets are on target, our planet could be in for a period of cataclysmic change brought about by natural and cosmic agents in order to purify it. Such assumptions coincide with the Space Intelligences' messages issued through Ted. One of their earliest communications was a warning to planet earth; yet, in the same note, the UFO/Inter-dimensional entities promised to help us, if we would only cooperate with higher powers, with nature and with our fellow man. Ted has constantly tried to get proper recognition from government spokesmen and scientific officials for his important work. For the most part, he has been dismissed lightly, without fair and unbiased consideration. Ted feels that disaster can be averted in numerous cases—in spite of ourselves—if we but wake up and take proper steps in time. But, we are told, it may already be too late! Beings of higher wisdom such as the SI's, wish to set a "salvage" plan in operation that will bring everything back into balance on this planet—and they indeed have the means to do it—but since they respect human choice, they will not force it down our throats.

In a letter to various scientists observing his work, Ted explains why the ways in which Other-Dimensional effects are manifested often seem so unusual to humans:

"The reason my psychic work is so hard and difficult to understand . . . is because I work other-dimensionally . . . with that half of my brain that the SI's changed, modified, to link my brain with/into their dimension. And being other-dimensional . . . the laws of that other dimension do not apply to, or agree with, the physical laws in this dimension. But they will bring about cause and effect with our physical laws nonetheless. Why modify half of my human brain? Because, in this way, I can 'translate' the SI Other-Dimensional effects into this dimension . . . so that (they) . . . can be understood in our own cause and effect language."

Although a good percentage of Ted Owens' prophesies appear startling, they are often accompanied by even more unbelievable demonstrations. The evidence is impressive and well-documented. It would take a large volume to cover all the varied types of predictions and "miracles" Ted has to his account.

His first major psychokinetic experiments involved weather and other activities of nature. More specifically, they involved such activities as: drenching chosen areas with torrents of rainfall (for days at a time), unleashing powerful thunder and lightning storms, and—believe it or not—directing and/or diverting the course of hurricanes! His book, How to Contact Space People contains accounts of these experiments, as well as the large east coast "blackout" ordered by Ted, which occurred in the late 1960s. One can only conclude that the SI's mean business; and, even though their initial purpose was to help us, they will not sit back at present and be passive while we senselessly try to destroy ourselves (and our world).

The major areas covered by Ted's amazing psychic foresight in the last few years include:

EXTREME WEATHER PHENOMENA

Note the following headlines gleaned from US News and World Report (June 11, 1973): Odd Weather: No End in Sight. Among the unusual weather patterns that year were—

- Heavy rainfall in the east, while . . .

- Drought was experienced in the northwest

- Floods "damaged crops over a vast area"

- An unprecedented volley of disastrous tornadoes occurred (169 in a four-day period!)

In his November, 1971 newsletter, Ted had written: "My demonstrations will be . . . in the skies and heavens overlooking our earth," adding that it would be his own work and not involve the Space Intelligences. It is very interesting to note that the aforementioned odd weather news account stated that erratic jet streams flowing through the upper atmosphere were responsible for most of the unusual weather. You may inquire: "But can Other-Dimensional forces actually control the jet streams?" They did, according to Owens.

EARTHQUAKES AND ATMOSPHERIC PHENOMENA

Major quakes and minor tremors have also been plentiful in the 1970s. But a specific case loosely tied in with erratic atmospheric behavior (predicted by Ted) took place about mid 1972. Ted, in a letter to his circle of scientists and researchers, reminded them that he had been working to cause an earthquake in northern California: "One was produced," he affirmed, ". . . off target somewhat, but in the time frame specified."

The major part of the quake occurred in Hawaii—200 miles southeast of Oahu Island on April 1, 1973. It was indeed quite mysterious at that! During the earthquake, the ionosphere apparently vanished, mystifying scientists considerably. Various other strange things "smacking of science-fiction" according to an AP report, also took place in the atmosphere shortly before a major tremor reached the largest island. Suddenly, long-wave radio signals, "began drifting and not making sense. The ground vibrated for about two hours," (after the quake first registered) whereas it should have ceased within about a half-hour span. One person was quoted as saying the quake "shook this island like a rug." Because of such unusual circumstances, one is tempted to conclude that a paranormal force was, in actuality, at work here.

California was not entirely spared either: From the April 12, 1973 Costa Mesa Register, we read of, "The fourth earthquake in two weeks" which struck the Fontana-Rialto area west of San Bernardino (registering 3.5 on the Richter scale). One man was reportedly knocked out of bed, but "otherwise there were no reports of damage." On the same day tremors, registering 5.0 on the Richter scale were reported in Mexico City (as in the above account, however, reports of damage or casualties were not evident).

FLOODS

In August, 1972, Ted Owens again reminded contacts of the earlier prediction, adding: "Now I would assume from here on . . . planes might be in danger, and the water attack (catastrophic flooding) that I write of . . . might be even more dangerous than it has been." (Hurricane Agnes in West Virginia, floods in South Dakota, etc., not to mention the worst typhoon in Philippine history) "So here it is. The power I 'sent up' in 1971 . . . has arrived." Referring briefly to the "lag" in this particular prediction, Ted explained that there are occasional time variations due to dimensional differences between our world and that of the SI's.

In 1971, Ted made comments on prior floods: "This (situation) was brought about . . . because my word of warning was not heeded . . . regarding further pollution. Now . . . the very air of the earth overhead . . . will be a no-man's land . . ." Each day new and formerly unknown dangers threaten an atmosphere already saturated with poison. Some experts say that we may have already passed the point of no return in atmospheric pollution. As Ted predicted in 1973, nature has truly started her war of retribution on man. We can expect more unusual weather patterns and drastic earth and atmospheric changes to come, warns Ted.

WORLDWIDE DROUGHT

In the latter part of 1972, the SI's informed Ted that they had set in motion drought conditions to "demonstrate their reality . . . their power to control the natural resources of our earth," and to teach "the human race a lesson it badly needs to learn . . . not to pollute and waste the earth's water." Note the following evidence:

From the San Francisco Chronicle, June 14, 1973, we read the heading: "Dry Spell Worst in 25 Years." The report says, "The United Nations early warning system for famine is signaling a red alert." Major world areas such as Latin America, Asia, Africa and the Middle East were affected by prolonged dry spells. Ted realizes that some people will claim that droughts occurred prior to his prediction, but he points out that these scattered situations did not all jell together in a specific time/group pattern until shortly afterward. For the short period involved, it seems they intensified and multiplied unusually fast! Realizing the harshness of these lessons, Ted assured correspondents that he felt "very deeply for the people all over the earth," who were deprived of water; he noted that the droughts were not something he wished on the earth. Instead it was a temporary, though drastic, measure taken by Higher Intelligences who have the whole progressive cosmic plan in mind, not just one egotistical, uncooperative little planet.

In spite of man's inhumanity toward his fellow beings, Ted has not completely given up hope for the human race. For that reason he has won SI approval to carry out a plan: Willing to go the "second mile" rather than merely express concern, Ted volunteered to use his own personal psychokinetic ability to influence nature and work to replenish stricken areas. His offers to help countries if their officials would simply contact him are a matter of record. But, in spite of proven credentials, there seem to be no authorities interested in such quick, unorthodox methods.

Nonetheless, Ted Owens is no "quack," nor is he a "crackpot." He is a man of both high ideals and intelligence—a member of "Mensa", an international organization requiring an exceptionally high IQ for membership, a devoted family man, and an individual with straight-forward, simple manners who is deeply concerned about the problems of our country and our world. His warning to those who would try to obtain and abuse supernormal powers from advanced spiritual entities leaves no room for doubt: "If they feel you will use them selfishly (against your fellow man), they will ignore you, for the SI's are only interested in finding and developing those humans who will use their new powers to advance the human race creatively and constructively!" It is a fact that Ted Owens has used paranormal powers to successfully rid select areas of drought, even though proper credit has not always been given where due.

It is clear to many scientists and far sighted thinkers that, through nature's erratic patterns, she is trying to tell us something vital. The point is, will we take heed?

A most unusual warning, recently circulated by Ted Owens concerns what he calls the "rich gang" (an international underground organization of economic manipulators). These men, he feels, are the power behind much of the political corruption and inner turmoil in this country. He stresses that they try to gain control of key officials in various countries through advanced psychological tactics, financial power or graft, and occasionally, downright violence in subtle forms. We have only recently discovered a few small exposed "cogs" within the vast machinery built by these power-crazed, wealth-hungry men. The largest portion still remains well hidden—and, as long as individuals allow greed to rule their better judgment, it will remain so. Ted does not beat around the bush about the "rich gang's" diabolical objectives: "Their purpose was to 'take' the world . . . by first gaining control of the U.S., the most powerful country . . . on down the line . . . so that they could make and dictate our policies, rig the market, control things," says Ted. "The only shield against them . . . is principle, morals, ethics. Their money goes over, under and around just about everybody's principles, morals, and ethics . . . except a handful. They'll be back with a 'new ballgame' in time ahead," warns Ted. He thinks this "gang" may have been the "incredibly intelligent brains" behind numerous assassinations of progressive leaders. Other murders and 'dirty work' are made to look accidental. The "rich gang" gains governmental advantage by setting up puppets within certain essential areas of the particular system's structure. Whether the puppets are aware of it or not, they can be used to advantage by the diabolical manipulators. According to Ted, these men are "picked . . . and patiently maneuvered into position." The "rich gang" is not just made up of dishonest, wealthy financial Barons or Mafia types; it may also include corrupt individuals who are their "dupes" and who have infiltrated the ranks of politics, religion, business and various organizations, such as unions, industry, media and higher educational institutions. Unfortunately, since a large majority of the people in our land today are apathetic, their attitudes add immensely to the "rich gang's" success. We can gain courage however, from the fact that spiritual forces such as the SI's are causing a "chemicalization" (or stirring of negative forces like this to the surface, much as impurities are brought to the surface of a liquid mixture and skimmed off for purification). It is a painful, trying process, but a necessary one.

SPACE EFFORTS

The SI's appear to be keeping a close eye on our space shots, probably to insure that we do not spread our destructive tendencies and greed to other worlds. Some noteworthy researchers into extraterrestrial and Other-Dimensional theories, such as Brinsley LePoer Trench, feel that earth was placed in a type of "quarantine" in the distant past by space people. They tell us that once enough men of strong character, linked with higher perception, emerge from this present challenging age, however, our planet will gravitate toward harmony, and the quarantine will be lifted. Earth will again have open communication with advanced races—as did the ancient masters. In the meantime, "They (the SI's) simply do not want us humans 'up there' fouling outer space as we have 'fouled' our own nest," remarks Ted in his typical direct manner. News media accounts of instances where space shots were dogged by difficulties are quite plentiful. In addition, the space programs involving astronauts have often had a pattern of bad luck mysteriously clinging to them. Such events are now a matter of history, so they will not be covered in detail here. Suffice it to say, the troubles have been many. For example, consider the Skylab missions. Skylab III was "peppered with problems from the beginning," according to a spokesman. One AP report quotes the flight director as saying that troubles had been so numerous, "I have the feeling somebody doesn't like us," adding later, "It can't be real." Ted's reaction to this was . . . "It always seems with SI miracles good and/or bad . . . 'it can't be real!'"

CELEBRITY TRAGEDIES

Ted has accurately predicted the tragic fate of a number of movie stars or well known personalities—for instance, the suicide of a government official (Congressman Mills), the divorce of Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, the death of several celebrities within a two week period . . . Robert Ryan, Veronica Lake, Joe E. Brown, Lon Chaney and Jack Hawks.

PRESIDENT NIXON

Over five years ago, Ted predicted that President Nixon would not be able to complete his term in office for some reason. In What the Seers Predict for 1971, by Warren Smith (Lancer Publications), Ted says: "President Nixon will not end in office. Something most unusual will occur, and he either will resign or be forced out of office."

THE FUTURE

As to the future, here is a summary of things we may expect. (Many are already well underway):

- more inflation and eventual depression
- failing crops
- insect invasions
- shortages of food and water
- strange new ailments (due to negative influences from outer space)
- more drastic earth changes (in the form of unusual weather, earthquakes, etc.)
- discoveries of new lifeforms in space.
- more exposure of corruption in "high places"

There is a positive note to add to such bleak news as the above: The SI's have led Ted into new, expanded areas of assignment concerning constructive OD. So far, he has successfully experimented with "coding" numerous SI disks with OD mechanisms, then spreading them over large areas—such as farms. The objective is "to produce favorable weather and growing conditions," and also, "to control insect infestation of crops."

Ted writes: "My new project . . . told to me by the SI's just last week (and I had been standing by for months waiting for their instructions) . . . is to get around the world, putting things right that go wrong . . . by using OD mechanisms and powers (stopping destructive volcanos; blocking hurricanes from hitting land mass; and so on and on in a thousand different mediums).

"All of the above, of course . . . is positive and constructive . . . and they have 'jumped me up' to a higher plateau . . . requiring much more issuance of OD power on my part . . . so evidently my mental power has grown much more this past year, or they would not consider me ready for this assignment."

From the moment I met Ted Owens, unusual things happened! Most of my initial curiosity over his work centered around that mysterious group of entities Ted calls SI's (space intelligences). While with him, I continually had the feeling we were not alone! Was he indeed in contact with higher intelligences, as claimed? Ted had told me that the SI's kept him under constant observation with one invisible UFO craft hovering overhead at all times—no matter where he was. However, I did not expect them to provide us with an impressive demonstration soon after my arrival! The first phenomena occurred at Ted's home where I was to receive training in the SI System mentioned earlier. Early in the training sessions, I had sensed a presence of some kind within the room, followed by a strong feeling that I was under close observation. Instinctively, my impression was that this was a friendly influence so there was no alarm. And the "third person" did not limit him (or her) self to just one demonstration. A factual description, recorded by Ted on the spot, gives the details of this case:

"At 6 P.M. Bill and I (Ted Owens) seated ourselves at a table at a local restaurant to have dinner. The waitress called over to Bill and me from a distance of 20 feet away: 'How many of you? Are there three of you?' Bill and I looked at each other puzzled. We were sitting at a table by ourselves, no other people within 30 feet. I called the waitress over, remembering that Bill had experienced sensing a third person present in my office today, when in fact there was none, and asked her why she had asked if there were three at our table. She said, 'Why I thought I saw another person sitting with you!' I was stunned. Two different people today, strangers to each other, and in different geographical locations . . . had seen or sensed another person near me!" A placemat—the only paper immediately available on which to write—was signed by the waitress and witnessed by myself. Ted still has it in his files.

"The SI's are directing various people to me for training," Ted had informed me earlier. His task was to wake up these "sleepers" to a fuller psychic potential. But, from that time onward, their progress would be measured in proportion to their own initiative. According to Owens, the SI's could, quite logically, appoint people from all walks of life to work with directly. However, he emphasizes that the requirements are very challenging and require strong character as well as mental discipline. Ted explains that the SI's have ingenious methods of testing one's real motivations—such as dream projections testing reactions to different simulated situations in these dreams. The fact remains that only the SI's themselves know whom they will ultimately select as contacts and coworkers.

The training sessions with Ted Owens were most memorable. In addition to giving the subject the ability to program his mind into positive patterns, Ted states that he "recharges the batteries" psychically—meaning that their whole system is energized while conditioning takes place. One might compare the psychic channel, Ted, to a sort of receiver/transmitter for Other-Dimensional forces. Basically, the program deals with all essential areas of a person's makeup (mental, spiritual, physical). In

Before I joined the Payroll Savings Plan all I could save was string.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, $5\frac{1}{2}\%$ when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra $\frac{1}{2}\%$, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember. Bonds are a proud way to save.

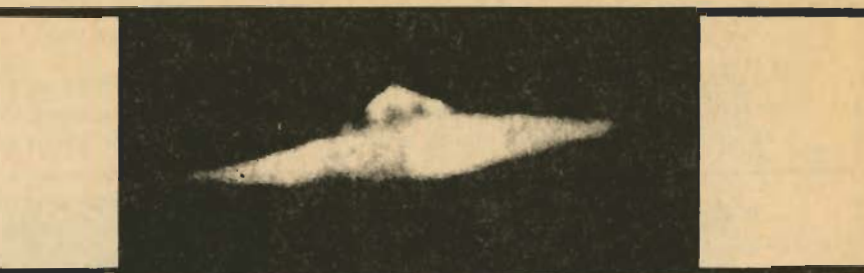

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

addition, Ted often has the uncanny ability to 'psyche out' certain problem areas, injecting a more personal approach toward specific 'hangups' when needed.

During breakfast Saturday morning, as we discussed present world conditions and our country's domestic problems, Ted pointed out the need for better political leadership in our country, for stronger officials with greater integrity to steer us through the storms of social and political unrest and turmoil. I could see that he was greatly concerned about the world's present situation. I was not told just exactly how the SI's plan to deal with such conditions on this planet, but I was made to realize that, in the larger perspective of things, their purpose is constructive. In spite of occasional "chastisement," the SI's are here to implement a positive plan to salvage this planet before it is too late. By working through people and events, they are bringing about a needed balance.

Remembering various supernatural interventions described in Biblical accounts, I asked, "Could the SI's be compared to angels of ancient times?"

"They were probably called angels back then," affirmed Ted, stressing that early men, with a limited technical background would see them from a slightly different perspective than we do and, therefore, attach a different label. But whether seen from the eyes of ancients or moderns, these UFO entities possess vast knowledge of the universe far beyond the realm of known science. From previous articles on Ted, I learned that the SI's are from another dimension entirely outside our own space/time continuum and that they possess fantastic powers that could make our most cherished marvels look puny by comparison. They provide the channel for the 'OD' powers. Why they selected Ted as a contact is yet another lengthy story which has been covered well in numerous other magazine articles (See Saga Magazine: August and September, 1970; March and April, 1971). Nearly a dozen books by noted writers in the occult/psychic field also describe his works. Ted is certainly not a "fly by night" operator. He claims the SI's have been working with him since childhood. For over 50 years, he has been involved in numerous mental/psychic innovations including the initial ESP experiments at Duke University years ago. And his communications with space intelligences is the result of painstaking effort over a large number of years. Presently he is in touch with various scientists who are observing his psychokinetic experiments.

When a man devotes most of his life to developing powerful mental and psychic aptitudes, he should have ample basis for claiming psychokinetic (mind over matter) ability. One thing is evident: Profit has not been Ted's major motive. He has unselfishly given much time and effort to the SI's plan (to save this planet), while also saddled with the responsibility of supporting his family. Sometimes the going has been rough, because no one has seemed interested in giving the SI work the support it needs in order for Ted to be freer to devote more time to his research; yet he has often used his ability to help numerous people in need without asking compensation.

Though his approach is unusual in comparison to most other psychics, Ted might truly be considered a master psychic—perhaps an essential earth link to other dimensions. One might even call him a UFO Prophet.
