

This Is What Started It —→

BATTLE OF THE PSYCHICS!

Seer Ted Owens Answers DeLouise Charges That He's a 'Fake, Phony'

By TOM VALENTINE

A tremendous "battle of the psychics" has erupted between Chicago's Joseph DeLouise and "PK man" Ted Owens of Virginia.

It all started with the Oct. 22, 1972, edition of the TATTLER when DeLouise criticized the claims and tactics employed by Owens.

"He hurts the image of legitimate ESP," DeLouise charged.

After reading the TATTLER story, Owens flipped his psychic wig and wrote a scorching letter to DeLouise and dared TATTLER to print it. In addition, he told TATTLER he would "hex" the Chicago Bears pro football team.

In his letter, Owens writes to DeLouise:

"You have to be stupid. You know, dumb. No one in this world, in their right mind, would take me on. Not after I have documented causing hurricanes with my mind; controlling radar installations with my mind; controlling pro teams with my mind..."

"Mind you, we are speaking of documented before-the-fact actions. But you have chosen to insult me...as did Long John Nebel some years ago, then he lost his prime time radio show; then his wife committed suicide; then he got cancer...and, so, you will get what you richly deserve, as time goes by.

"You have to be stupider and dumber than me, because my IQ is scientifically certified. I am a member of Mensa. You are not. You couldn't make it. So...you are a dumb bunny.

"As a psychic, fella, you are a nothing. So you can make some predictions. Big deal. I can make predictions that come true; also I can control exploding volcanos, control the weather, control military forces, heal people given up by doctors for dead, control pro football and basketball teams, control radar installations...and on and on..."

Owens signed his letter "Ted Owens, PK man" evidently the initials stand for "psychokinesis," the ability to control matter with one's mind.

DeLouise reacted calmly to the tirade in writing, he told TATTLER: "I think Mr. Owens smelled publicity; and that's fine. But, after reading his letter, I have even more doubts about him than before. He claims he can control all those things, but it appears he can't control his mouth too well.

"As for his promise to hex the Chicago Bears, I'm laughing...since his so-called hex the Bears, who hadn't won a game, won three straight...some hex. With results like that, I hope he hexes me."

Owens claimed he "doubled the power of P.K." against the Bears and they will continue "to lose games and lose men to injuries until DeLouise makes a public apology to me."

Owens charged DeLouise with seeking publicity by attacking him in the first place. DeLouise, however, stuck to his original guns.

"I am convinced that Mr. Owens' claims are a detriment to legitimate ESP. In his letter to me, he actually takes credit for doing terrible harm to another human being — Long John Nebel, the New York radio man. He claims he causes football players' injuries.

"That's an easy claim to make, football players are always getting hurt. However, I do understand the power of the human mind and the forces of psychokinesis...it is entirely possible to do others harm in the manner Owens claims. Therefore, if he insists on taking credit for causing injuries, he should be held responsible with a double

Joseph DeLouise Raps A Fellow Psychic

'Seer Ted Owens Is Ruining Legitimate Image Of ESP'

By TOM VALENTINE
 Famous Chicago psychic, Joseph DeLouise has accused another famous seer, Ted Owens, of "ruining legitimate ESP's image."
 "We psychics have enough trouble with the skeptical public without having some guy popping all with phony claims," DeLouise said.
 DeLouise told TATTLER in an exclusive interview that Owens, a mere who claims to talk with outer space intelligences, is "opening a Pandora's box with some of his claims about his influence on professional sports teams."
 Owens claims he has put a "whammy" on such teams as the Baltimore Colts and Los Angeles Rams of pro football, the Baltimore Orioles of pro baseball, and everything in Philadelphia.
 "What's wrong with his claims," DeLouise points out, "is if he has really done what he said, he should go to jail—if not, he should shut up."
 Here's what Owens has claimed: He started in 1957 to earn $2,000 by putting a "hex" on losing teams. He put Philadelphia Eagles owner Jerry Wolman, Wolman admits for a demonstration, at Owens' side in the stands with the club owner and made the New York Giants play miserably, he said.
 However, the Eagles played worse and lost, so Wolman booted Owens out. Looking revenge, Owens claims he heard the Eagles and they went steadily downhill. Owens claims his hex has been responsible.
 Last year, he offered his services to the Baltimore Colts owner, Carroll Rosenbloom and this time the price was $100,000.
 Rosenbloom said yes, so Owens claims he's the one that levelled him out of the Superbowl against Dallas in 1971 and cost them the playoff against Miami in 1972.

 When Rosenbloom made his unprecedented franchise trade of the Colts for the Rams, Owens was the only one around who said, "He writes to Rosenbloom on June 20 suggesting:
 "You are acquiring a team that I will play like it has run into a steel wall unless you hire my services."
 Rosenbloom ignored him.
 On July 17, Rams quarterback Roman Gabriel suffered a ruptured lung and the Rams are hindered despite having a fine team.
 The Cleveland Browns are another team Owens claims to have personally wrecked. "One of the team's executives called me a 'tough ESP phony on live radio. Well, you'll notice that Art Modell, Browns owner, has had an accident. That's just the beginning."

'If I were Namath, Unitas or Gabriel, I'd punch Owens in the nose'

Caught In Gas War, This Station Owner Drives His Tanker To Rival Station And Says--'Fill 'Er Up'

Gas station owner Hugh Mado drove his 7,000 gallon tanker truck to a competing "pump-and-serve" station, "I'll fill it up," $1.00 worth.
 "It may seem funny to you, but it's dollars to me," the Mifflinville, Wis., businessman said.
 He certainly was. Mado had just 25 cents a gallon to sell before the day before. And he's competitive; a Union 24 station was selling gas for 22 1/2 cents a gallon.
 Mado said that the matter of the competing station "has been a real tough battle in the local gasoline price war."
 "I've known him for a long time, and we're old friends," Mado said. "I told him he was selling gas I was buying gas."
 The fellow accepted the use of two hoses, and took eight hours to complete.
 The next day, the owner of the competing station closed his prices.

harm to the masses of people.

One of Owens' followers, Bernard Brugger of Edmonton, Canada, wrote TATTLER with the Owens' point of view:

"Mr. Owens' activities (as attacked by DeLouise) have been taken out of context and I can assure you that Mr. Owens' purpose is not, but absolutely not, to hex football teams, etc., for the sake of doing evil or forcing the teams' owners into hiring him for a handsome salary.
 "He is using his tremendous mind powers in order to make people powers to deliberately harm another individual...they taught their philosophies by example, they showed others the right way with their actions.

"Owens, then, is teaching others that if the world doesn't take your word for something you believe, you have every right to cause injury, sickness and even death. This is simply not true nor logical.

"I'm not giving this character any more of my time or energy...as far as I'm concerned, I've made my point and that's that."

Here's ↓ Owens' Reply

dumb. No one in this world, in their right mind, would take me on. Not after I have documented causing hurricanes with my mind; controlling radar installations with my mind; controlling pro teams with my mind..."

"Mind you, we are speaking of documented before-the-fact actions. But you have chosen to insult installations...and on and on..." Owens signed his letter "Ted Owens, PK man" evidently the initials stand for "psychokinesis," the ability to control matter with one's mind.

DeLouise reacted calmly to the tirade in writing, he told TATTLER: "I think Mr. Owens smelled

"I am convinced that Mr. Owens claims are a detriment to legitimate ESP. In his letter to me, he actually takes credit for doing terrible harm to another human being — Long John Nebel, the New York radio man. He claims he causes football players' injuries.

"That's an easy claim to make, football players are always getting hurt. However, I do understand the power of the human mind and the forces of psychokinesis...It is entirely possible to do others harm in the manner Owens claims. Therefore, if he insists on taking credit for causing injuries, he should be jailed for assault with a deadly weapon."

TATTLER asked Owens why he made such claims and what reasons did he have for attacking pro sports.

"I do what I do to make people aware of the existence of higher spiritual entities who are not happy with the trends of our society."

Owens claims that, by attacking pro sports, he attacks a decadent level of society without doing great harm to the masses of people.

One of Owens' followers, Bernard Brugger of Edmonton, Canada, wrote TATTLER with the Owens' point of view:

"Mr. Owens' activities (as attacked by DeLouise) have been taken out of context and I can assure you that Mr. Owens' purpose is not, but absolutely not, to hex football teams, etc., for the sake of doing evil or forcing the teams' owners into hiring him for a handsome salary.

"He is using his tremendous mind powers in order to make people realize that such powers exist and that space people exist, too."

Brugger lauded Owens' healing ability and the positive side of the man who claims he caused Los Angeles Rams pro football quarterback Roman Gabriel's lung ailment earlier this year.

In ending his defense of Owens, Brugger wrote:

"What do you think of Moses? Didn't he use sinister powers as Ted Owens? Sometimes, in a spectacular way, you have to admit. Should he have been jailed, also?"

DeLouise, upon reading Brugger's defense, said:

"Some people will believe anything. I accept that Owens could be an excellent healer and psychic — I don't attack healers and psychics who use their abilities for beneficial purposes, but his reasons for putting the hex on football players and persons who he feels insult him are weak and a little sick.

"Moses didn't pick on the little things, like Egyptian chariot racers, he reluctantly used his God-given powers only when absolutely necessary. Moses and Jesus and other Higher Beings who worked among the masses never used their powers to deliberately harm another individual...they taught their philosophies by example, they showed others the right way with their actions.

"Owens, then, is teaching others that if the world doesn't take your word for something you believe, you have every right to cause injury, sickness and even death. This is simply not true nor logical.

"I'm not giving this character any more of my time or energy...as far as I'm concerned, I've made my point and that's that."

In an effort to get expert opinion, TATTLER asked Jeane Dixon, one of the world's leading prophets, to comment on the controversy:

"I don't like to grace such a thing publicly, but all persons with the psychic gift should use their talents for constructive reasons. I use my talents to help people. I'm here to help and not destroy."

Here's ↓ Owens' Reply

Oct. 7, 1972

Mr. Joseph DeLouise, Psychic Chicago
c/o National Tattler

fellows...

A friend of mine in Chicago saw an article today, in which you say some nasty things about me in Tattler. You even have the gall to insinuate, as he explained it long distance, that I might be a "fake and phony".

Let's take it one step at a time.

You have to be stupid. You know, dumb. No one in this world, in their right mind, would take me on. Not after I have documented causing hurricanes with my mind; controlling radar installations with my mind; controlling pro teams with my mind... and mind you, we are speaking of documented before-the-fact actions. But you have chosen to insult me...as did Long John Nebel, some years ago (he's lost his voice time radio show; then his wife committed suicide; then he got cancer)...and so, you will get what you richly deserve, as time goes by.

You have to be stupider and dumber than me, because my IQ is scientifically certified. I am a number of tens. You are not. You couldn't make it. So...you are a dumb bunny.

Second: (we've taken up the mantle, now the psychic)...as a psychic, fellows, you are a nothing. So you can make some predictions. Big deal. I can make predictions that come true; also I can control exploding volcanoes, control the weather, control military forces, heal people given up by doctors for dead, control pro football and basket ball teams, control radar installations...and on and on. And all of it is documented; proved. I have notations, signed affidavits from lawyers, scientists, etc., as to the truth of what I have just stated...so there can be no argument. I have even had UFO's appear at certain times and places so that scientists and others could examine them with binoculars, etc. This, also, is proven. So...you have to be stupid to call me a fake or a phony.

Third: Why try to hex football players to come to Cape Charles and punch me in the nose? Hey, how brave you are! Let's you and him fight, you say. Well, fellows...I live at 619 Randolph Street, Cape Charles, Virginia. I say you are a dirty, lowdown yellow coward. But is that I label you. Now, if you aren't...come on down, and we'll square off in my backyard with bare fists. I'm 32 years old, with a potholly, and years out of condition...but it would be a pleasure to give you a lesson in manners.

Look at it any way you can turn it, fellows...mental, physical or psychic...you are light years away from being anything, or doing anything, like Ted Owens, PK man, and for your sake would better believe it.

Ted Owens (PK Man)
Box 42, Cape Charles, Virginia 23010

cc: National Tattler.

Joseph DeLouise ... 'Owens can't even control his mouth'.

Ted Owens ... His hex on the Bears didn't work.