

May 1976

There was a double copy of series of letters with same content but to different people. To keep a match exactly between the documents in folders and electronically, I made two copies even if redundant.